

List of Contributors

EDITORS

GORDON L. HEATH (PhD, St. Michael's College) is Associate Professor of Christian History at McMaster Divinity College, and serves as Director of the Canadian Baptist Archives. His recent appointment to the Centenary Chair in World Christianity at the college reflects his growing interest in how Christian communities around the world have been eliminated. His publications include A War with a Silver Lining: Canadian Protestant Churches and the South African War, 1899–1902 (MQUP, 2009), and Doing Church History: A User-friendly Introduction to Researching the History of Christianity (Clements, 2008). He has also recently edited Canadian Churches and the First World War (Pickwick, 2014), and co-edited Canadian Baptists and Public Life (Pickwick, 2012), and Baptism: Historical, Theological and Pastoral Perspectives (Pickwick, 2011).

MICHAEL A. G. HAYKIN was born in England of Irish and Kurdish parents. He is currently Professor of Church History at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky. Dr. Haykin is the author of a number of books dealing with Patristic and Baptist studies and is also the general editor of a forthcoming 16-volume edition of the works of Andrew Fuller (Walter de Gruyter). Dr. Haykin and his wife Alison live in Dundas, Ontario.

OTHER CONTRIBUTORS

DOUG ADAMS is currently pursuing a PhD in history at the University of Western Ontario. His father was a loyal supporter of Shields and in time became the principal of Toronto Baptist Seminary. Doug studied at the seminary and graduated in 1977 with a Master of Divinity degree. He went on to serve as an assistant pastor in Briscoe Street Baptist Church and later as Pastor of East Williams Baptist Church, a position he occupied for twenty years. During that time, Doug also pursued further education at the University of Western Ontario and by the mid-1990s achieved his Master of Arts degree. Doug also served as the Professor of Church History at Toronto Baptist Seminary for nearly twenty years. Involvement in both Shields's school and his church gives Doug unique opportunities to study the life of Dr. Shields. Jarvis Street Baptist church has graciously granted him access to their extensive archives, which contain most of the Shields papers. Doug is currently writing his dissertation on Shields as something of a revisionist biographical account of Shields's life and ministry.

PAUL BREWSTER is the pastor of Ryker's Ridge Baptist Church, Madison, Indiana. He is also an Assistant Professor of Religion at Liberty University and a fellow of the Andrew Fuller Center for Baptist Studies at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, KY. He has been in the pastoral ministry for almost twenty-five years, serving congregations in Arkansas, North Carolina, and Indiana. He was educated at the University of Arkansas (BA 1986), New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary (M.Div. 1989), and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary (PhD 2007). He is the author of Andrew Fuller: Model Pastor-Theologian (Broadman & Holman, 2010) and several articles on Baptist history and theology. Pastor Brewster and his wife Debbie have four grown children.

ANTHONY R. CROSS is a Member of the Faculty of Theology and Religion, University of Oxford, and in the fall of 2013 was Scholar in Residence in the Department of Dogmatics and Ecumenical Theology, Vrije Universiteit, Amsterdam. Among his most recent work is Recovering the Evangelical Sacrament: Baptisma Semper Reformandum (Wipf & Stock, 2013); with Pieter J. Lalleman and Peter J. Morden, editor of Grounded in Grace: Essays in Honour of Ian M. Randall (Spurgeon's College and The Baptist Historical Society, 2013); with John H. Y. Briggs, editor of Freedom and the Powers: Perspectives from Baptist History (Didcot: The Baptist Historical Society, 2014), and, forthcoming, an historical and theological volume on the importance of a theologically educated Baptist ministry, Able and Evangelical (Wipf & Stock, 2015), and a volume on Baptism and the Origins of the Baptists (Wipf & Stock).

MAURICE DOWLING comes originally from Liverpool. He majored in Russian language, literature, and history at the University of Cambridge (BA 1969), obtained the BD from London University in 1973, and completed his MTh (1982) and PhD (1987) in Patristics at Queen's University, Belfast. For over 40 years Maurice taught at the Irish Baptist College in Northern Ireland, mainly in the areas of church history, historical theology and Hebrew. He was a Recognized Teacher in the theology department at Queen's University, and subsequently also in theology departments at the Universities of Wales and of Chester. Since his retirement in 2012 he has continued to teach and to supervise research on a part-time basis. For over 20 years Maurice travelled regularly to the former Soviet Union, teaching short-term courses at seminaries and Bible colleges and ministering in many (mainly Baptist) churches and speaking at conferences. For nearly 30 years he has been an elder in a Baptist fellowship in Belfast. Maurice is married to Brenda and they have four children.

NATHAN A. FINN serves as Associate Professor of Historical Theology and Baptist Studies at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest, North Carolina. He has contributed over two-dozen essays to scholarly books and journals and is co-author of a forthcoming Baptist history textbook. He also serves as an associate editor of the multi-volume The Complete Works of Andrew Fuller (Walter de Gruyter, forthcoming) to which he is contributing the volume on Sandemanianism. Nathan is married with four children and serves as one of the elders of the First Baptist Church of Durham, North Carolina.

ROBERT D. LINDER is University Distinguished Professor of History at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kansas. He earned his BS degree in history and political science at Emporia State University and his MA and PhD in history from the University of Iowa. He taught at the University of Iowa as a Graduate Teaching Assistant and as a full-time faculty member at William Jewell College in Missouri before joining the faculty at KSU in 1965. He also has done postgraduate work at the University of Oxford and has been a visiting professor of history at the University of Wollongong and at Macquarie University in Australia. Linder is the author and/or editor of seventeen books and of scores of articles in professional journals and books. His main research interests lie in American, European, and Australian religious, and political and social history from the Reformation to the present. He spent eight years on the Manhattan

City Commission and was twice Mayor of his city. He served in the United States Army Reserve from 1959 to 1967, two years of which was on active duty. His forthcoming books include The Age of Anxiety: Australian Evangelical Christians and the Inter-War Years and New Light on the Southern Cross: Essays on Australian Religious and Political History.

JAMES TYLER ROBERTSON received his PhD in 2013 from McMaster Divinity College. He is currently editing his book A Good Fight: The Religious War of 1812. He has published journal articles and book chapters on a variety of subjects related to the War of 1812, Canadian history, missionaries, the crusades, British imperial history, and Baptist, Anglican, and Methodist histories. He currently works in the history department of Tyndale Seminary as well as pastoring two rural Baptist churches in southern Ontario. A frequent speaker at popular and academic societies, Robertson has presented on British identity in Northern Ireland, imperial history in England, and throughout America on the topic of Christianity in the early republic, military morality, and the religious implications of Francis Scott Key's "The Defence of Fort M'Henry" which became the American national anthem. He resides in Hamilton, Ontario.