CONTENTS

LIST OF MAPS AND SKETCHES viii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS ix
INTRODUCTION xi

PART ONE: PRELIMINARIES TO BATTLE 1
I: NUMBERS: THE GENESIS OF A LEGEND
   Why was the Battle Fought?
   The Strength of Task Force Mercedes
   The Condition of Task Force Mercedes
   Argentinian Morale: A Battle Lost before it was Fought
   Comparative Strengths of Task Force Mercedes and 2 Para Group

II: COLONEL JONES’ PLAN AND ORDERS 11
   The Day of the Colonel’s ‘O’ Group
   ‘Orders Tactics’ and Colonel Jones’ Command Style

PART TWO: THE BATTLE 23
III: INITIAL MOVES
IV: ‘A’ COMPANY ASSAULT BURNTSIDE HOUSE 26
   ‘A’ Company’s Mission
   Disorder and Reorganisation
   Delays
   Comment
   The Battlegroup Commander

V: ‘B’ COMPANY ASSAULT BURNTSIDE HILL 32
   ‘B’ Company’s Mission
   ‘B’ Company’s Advance
   What had ‘B’ Company Achieved?

VI: ‘D’ COMPANY’S ADVANCE 44
   The ‘Ostrich Factor’

VII: ‘A’ COMPANY ADVANCE ACROSS CORONATION POINT 52
    Did the Colonel Put ‘A’ Company at a Tactical Disadvantage?
    Was the Colonel Unhappy with ‘A’ Company’s Progress?

VIII: ‘A’ COMPANY APPROACH DARWIN 66
    Daybreak
    ‘A’ Company’s Surprise
    The Argentinian Positions at Darwin Hill

© 2001 The Lutterworth Press
IX: ‘B’ COMPANY APPROACH BOCA HILL  74
X: THE DARWIN HILL PROBLEM  77
   The Action at Darwin Hill
   3 Platoon during the Darwin Fighting
   The Engagement so far
   Battlegroup Tac Joins ‘A’ Company
XI: THE BIGGER PICTURE  86
   The Controversy
   ‘D’ Company Commander’s Suggestion
   ‘B’ Company Commander’s Suggestion
   2 i/c ‘B’ Company’s Suggestion
   2 i/c ‘C’ Company’s Attempted Action
   Support Company’s Offer of Assistance
   The Battery Commander’s Suggestions
   The Practice of Restrictive Control by a Battlegroup Commander
   Obedience, Initiative and the Concentration of Force
XII: THE ASSAULT AT DARWIN HILL  99
   The Assault
   Were There Two Assaults or Only One?
   Did the Colonel Assume Command of ‘A’ Company?
   So What Really Happened?
XIII: THE COLLAPSE OF THE DARWIN HILL POSITION  123
   The Official Story of Darwin Hill
XIV: THE CREATION OF A SCHWERPUNKT  134
   The Situation at the Time Colonel Jones was Shot
   Reappraising the Situation
   The Collapse of the Boca Hill Position
XV: THE EXPLOITATION OF SUCCESS  145
   The Advance from Darwin Hill
XVI: THE EXPLOITATION FROM BOCA HILL  150
   Developing Manoeuvre out of a Positional Plan
   10 Platoon’s Detached Action
XVII: THE FIGHTING NEAR GOOSE GREEN  153
   The Assault on the Schoolhouse
   Exploitation from the Schoolhouse
   The ‘White Flag’ Incident
   Final Attempts to Advance
   ‘C’ and ‘D’ Companies Halt
XVIII: ‘B’ COMPANY APPROACH GOOSE GREEN  168
   ‘B’ Company’s Exploitation from Boca Hill
   The Argentinian Reinforcement
   Successful Argentinian Manoeuvre

© 2001 The Lutterworth Press
PART THREE: CONCLUSIONS

XIX: EVENTS AND NON-EVENTS LEADING TO THE ARGENTINIAN SURRENDER

The British Air Strike
The Situation of 2 Para Group at Last Light on 28 May
‘A’ Company
‘B’ Company
‘C’ Company
‘D’ Company
Support Elements
The Last Act
The Final Missed Opportunity

XX: HOW THE BATTLE WAS LOST AND WON:

Reflections on Mobile and Positional Warfare,
Directive Command and Restrictive Control

APPENDICES

Appendix 1: Glossary
Appendix 2: Transcript of Colonel Jones’ orders given at Camilla Creek House, 28 May 1982
Appendix 3: Transcript of 3 Commando Brigade radio log

BIBLIOGRAPHY

INDEX